Planners To Study Parking

Confronted by two requests from the city council for recommendations on off-street parking, Carmel planning commissioners, yesterday afternoon, decided to start the new year on January 10 with a special study session to formulate standards, programs and a plan for municipal parking lots.

They recommended to the council the proposal of Willard Neumann that the city acquire a triangular block he owns at Ocean and Mountain View avenues, for use as a parking lot, was not feasible as the area is inadequate for parking.

The council requests spurred the commission into action on parking plans which have been lagging in committee since January 4, 1961. Chairman Herbert Blanks, presid-

Mission Midnight Mass Broadcast On Christmas Day

The Christmas Eve midnight Solemn High Mass at Carmel Mission Basilica to be celebrated by the Most Reverend Harry A. Clinch, D.D. and sung by a boys' choir will be broadcast at noon on Christmas Day over Radio Station KRML from a tape recording made the previous evening in the centuries-old church. Bishop Clinch has given his permission for this first broadcast of Christmas Eve services at the Basilica.

At 8:30 o'clock Christmas morning, Station KRML will present a Protestant Episcopal church service, followed at 9:00 o'clock by observances of First Church of Christ, Scientist.

At 9:45 Christmas morning, a Salvation Army service will be broadcast and at 10:00 o'clock, the service of the Mayflower Church.

Handel's Messiah, a presentation of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints' will be broadcast over Station KRML at 10:30 o'clock.

Station KRML, situated just south of Carmel at the mouth of Carmel Valley, is presenting the above programs as a public service to the community.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

Tonight is the annual Christmas party for children of Carmel Volunteer Fire Department members.

Youngsters under ten years old will gather at 7:30 o'clock at the Fire House to share the presents, candy, ice cream and cookies.

Parents accompanying the small fry will be provided with coffee and other refreshments while they help their offspring greet Santa Claus. The old elf will be ably portrayed this year by Jimmy Kelsey, according to Paul Artellan, who is chairman of the party committee.

Other committee members are James Cardwell, James Bannerman, Kelsey, Lee McGuckin, Eric Jensen and James Cherry. This year's party marks about the 20th time the yuletide event has been held, according to the best recollections of the Carmel Fire Department.

There is a ghost of Christmas Past.

A bashful spectre nowadays, it materializes only occasionally, in the glitter of old-fashioned heavy metal tinsel, in the wistful face of an old bisque doll, in the echo of popping corn and the wake of strolling carollers.

But Carmel's own particular ghost of Christmas Past is less elusive. It lives on and on, unchanged in the hearts of those who remember.

In the Twenties and Thirties, the focal point of Christmas for Carmelites was the giant pine at Ocean Avenue and Junipero, the very same tree now hung annually with electric bulbs.

But in earlier days, there were no bulbs and even if there had been, the annual Christmas rain storm which invariably affected the electric system would probably have decommissioned them.

At a pre-arranged time, two or three nights before the holiday, the whole town would assemble around the tree to sing carols. Though the tradition was of casual origin, many Carmelites credit Mrs. Joseph Schoeninger of Carmel Point with having been the person most responsible for its enthusiastic reception and continuation.

And Mrs. Schoeninger's husband, the late Joseph Schoeninger, was among the several Carmelites who, through the years, took on

Carmel's Largest Family All Ready For Santa Claus

Nowhere will Christmas be more enthusiastically celebrated than at the lively Mission Fields home of Chief Warrant Officer and Mrs. Francis L. Beardsley, whose wedding in September united their two families for a total of 18 children.

Christmas lights are strung up in happy profusion at the Beardsleys', both inside and out. The eaves and a porch are literally blazing with colored bulbs come nightfall.

Everyone will be at home, Mrs. Beardsley reports, and she plans to prepare Christmas dinner for 22, counting the Beardsley parents and two guests, Bob Brandmeir of San Francisco and Kathleen Brandmeir of Castro Valley, brother and sister of Mrs. Beardsley.

And how many turkeys will the Editorial . . .

Let us rejoice and be exceeding glad this Christmas season that we live in Carmel. We may lift our eyes unto the hills, see sunlight, moonlight and the myriad stars dance in reflection on ocean waves which break on rocky promontories or silver beaches backed by windblown cypresses, fragrant pines and spreading oaks. We may gaze on the glory of the western sky in the evening.

Let us also rejoice that we have little poverty in Carmel. We may delight in Christmas trees shining forth from the windows of almost every home, plentiful presents beneath the glistening boughs, children's stockings hung at hearthsides and knobbly with surprises, shouts of glee mingling with aromas of feasts cooking in comfortable homes.

Let us rejoice again that we may worship in churches, if we so desire. We may gather at Christmastide to hear the story of the birth in Bethlehem, sing ages-old carols and listen to anthems proclaiming glory to God in the highest.

Let us rejoice still more that we may show our children the the role of Santa Claus and rode down the hill in Bettie Greene's donkey cart with treats for the children.

Though it's hardly important in the light of the general agreement that Christmas was really Christmas in those days, a minor disagreement exists among those trying to recall exactly who trimmed that tree in the old days.

Mrs. Laidlaw (Abbie Lou) Williams says she was under the impression the job was handed around among some of the artists then in Carmel. She says she particularly recalls one Christmas in the early Thirties when John O'Shea got hundreds of tin cans from the American Can Company on Cannery Row, and cut reflector-type decorations which he dangled from the branches, topping the job off with a single light at the top of the tree, and a very effective job it was.

But Ferdinand Burgdorff of Pebble Beach says most of the credit for the good jobs on the tree should go to journalist and author Fred Bechdolt, who was responsible for many civic projects he never took the credit for.

Said Burgdorff, "I don't recall that the artists had so much to do with it. We were all too lazy."

One of Mrs. Williams's brightest Christmas memories is of the door-to-door carolling sessions organized by Mrs. Schoeninger. These would get underway early on Christmas Eve, with youthful neighbors gathering at the Schoeninger home, among them the Schoeninger children, Virginia and John Rockwell, the Reynolds family of San Antonio Street, Jerry Chance and Abbie Lou herself.

"Almost always we were applauded and many times we were invited in as we made the rounds from home to home. But I'll never forget one night in the Eighty Acres neighborhood when we sang under a window and a woman came to the door and said, 'Shoo! Shoo!' We were quite dejected at her attitude, and I never go past that house to this day that I don't remember her."

Another important night just before Christmas was the occasion of the traditional Sunset School pageant. Since Sunset held all elementary grades then, almost everyone who had a youngster in school or knew a youngster in school attended, which meant that almost all of Carmel turned out for that, too.

The pageant was traditional, with the littlest, blondest children garbed as angels and a full supporting cast of shepherds, wise men and passers-by. Among the particularly memorable Sunset productions was a frieze of children in costume from youngest cherubs to a motherly Maria, produced by former Sunset art instructor Miss Madeline Currey.

"Some people remember white Christmases from childhood. I remember rainy Christmases," says Mrs. Herb (Jane) Vial. "It seemed every Christmas a storm would come in, trees would blow down, the lights would go out, chimneys would topple in the wind, things would catch fire. We children loved every minute of the excitement. Mrs. Vial is the daughter of the late Carmel writer, James Hopper.

Another Carmelite who remembers Christmases here as rainy, at least during World War I, is Frank Lloyd. Each December his father, the late Dr. Francis E. Lloyd, came by train from Montreal, Canada, to spend the Christmas season in Carmel with Mrs. Lloyd, Frank and his brother, David. Mrs. Lloyd and the boys always planned to meet the train in Salinas, driving over in Miss Emma Williams's Model T Ford. This was a long, muddy drive in those days, if it rained, and Frank seems to think it usually did.

One year it rained so hard the Salinas River bridge washed out. But that was after Christmas. Dr. Lloyd had to remain in Carmel an extra week, which his family enjoyed, and Frank doesn't remember whether or not his father's students at McGill University objected to their professor's absence from class for a few days.

Mrs. Russell (Cynthia) Williams, a member of the Theodore Criley family of Carmel Highlands, recalls when her family home, the stone house above Gibson Beach, was the scene of a mammoth Christmas party annually.

"My father, (Mr. Criley) was fond of dancing and he had a studio living room which made a splendid dance floor. The parties almost always took the form of a costume ball with a pre-arranged theme.

"One year 'immigration' was the theme and William Ritschel came as a German immigrant. Miss E. Charlton (Effie) Fortune, who now lives in Rome but was formerly prominent among the Highlands art group, came along clutching her carpet bag. She was in costume and in actuality a Scot, a relative of Robert Louis Stevenson, and was the hit of the evening when she refused to allow the 'customs officer' to touch her carpet bag.

"Others who were frequenters of these parties included Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Lynch Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Heron, Luis Mora, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Randolph, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Hopper, Mr. and Mrs. John O'Shea, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Flavin and the Ritschels, of course.

"One year the party was a cascarone ball. Our Spanish nurse spent weeks blowing out eggs and stuffing them with confetti and then afterwards we spent years cleaning the confetti out of the corners of the house. And several guests that year who couldn't duck the eggs fast enough went home with black eyes.

"In the living room we always had a tree tall enough to touch the ceiling, and our ceiling was 18 feet high.

"Besides the invited guests, we usually had a few people who had been marooned in the Highlands staying with us for the holidays. You see, it always rained around Christmas, the road would wash away, and travellers who were stuck came to our gate, since it was the first in line. Sometimes we had a house party that lasted past New Year's, with our invited friends and strangers, too, and everyone always seemed to have a good time."

Spontaneity, Sparkling Voices, Boisterous Comedy Make Circle's Trial By Jury Another Success

Trial by Jury, Gilbert and Sullivan's first collaboration produced in 1875 and published as a dramatic cantata, was witnessed at the Circle Theatre as the first musical given there by enterprising Director Fred Rider. Its comedy, performed as almost burlesque boisterousness with good voices and dramatic ability that sparked the whole cast, can be called a "howling" success. Having been a schoolgirl protegee of Gilbert's in his latter days and the producer several times of The Mikado, I went to the performance with a decided feeling of how Gilbert and Sullivan's work should be presented and came away with admiration for the spontaneity, freedom of action and expression the Circle Theatre gave opportunity for, reflecting high credit on the producers Ted Huffman and Fred Rider.

Huffman as the Court Usher excelled in voice and acting. Paul Ransom as The Learned Judge was an agile, vocal "sly dog." The Plaintiff Angelina, Sally Welts, was a pretty flirt. The Defendant, John Fitzmaurice, a "love-sick boy" rampaged throughout in tireless activity. Counsel for the Plaintiff, Gene Lawrence, was strong in voice and diction; while the Foreman of The Jury, John E. Craige, with Bridesmaids, Michele Buhler, Georgina Stockman and Jackie Ward, and Gentlemen of The Jury, Robert Handy, William Wilbur, Peter Crooker and Alfred Cooper, as well as The Spectators, Nancy Jesen, Kathy Wilson, Celeste White, Ada Barrera, Mildred Cushing, Lydia Punkt, Beth Zanides, Nancy Briggs, Evelyn Ayers and Dorothy Axtman all shone in their different capacities. The score was played on a small upright piano against the curtains of the back stage with commendable adroitness. Even if the music is simple in construction, it demands rhythmic and dynamic playing and above all tempi. The last, in some places, could have been accelerated but the whole performance hung together amazingly well. Costumes were brilliant with the Spectators' head plumes and gowns clearly reflecting Mildred Cushing's clever work.

Preceding Trial by Jury, an amusing short comedy, Village Wooing by Bernard Shaw, was played by Fred Rider and Rosamond Zammit in three scenes. Shaw's inimitable repartee covered the situation of a village shopkeeper who splurges on a ship tour and sets her cap at an indifferent writer, insisting on conversation on deck when he wants to write. Later, when he does not even recognize the woman in her shop, he finally capitulates, purchases the shop and has the banns announced. The dialogue, full of Shaw's sarcasm and witticisms, is forcefully pointed at each other by the actors while the audience hardly gets time enough to laugh at each. The next performance of these excellent productions is on December 29 with five weekend performances to follow. Don't miss seeing them!

Nancy Flavin

Nancy Williams Flavin, 35, of San Francisco and upper Carmel Valley, died unexpectedly of a heart attack at her San Francisco home on Friday. She was the wife of Sean Flavin, San Francisco attorney, and the daughter-in-law of Martin Flavin of Pebble Beach.

A native of Louisville, Kentucky, where she was born September 13, 1926, Mrs. Flavin attended elementary and high schools there, later studied at Northwestern University. She was married in Louisville on August 16, 1952.

With her husband, she maintained a home at the Flavin Ranch in the Cachagua and the couple had many friends and acquaintances on the Peninsula.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Flavin is survived by two sons, Christopher and Colin Flavin; a brother, Thaddeus Williams of Phoenix, Arizona; and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Williams of Louisville.

FIRE AT CANDIDE'S

A fire Tuesday noon at Candide's restaurant in Carmel completely destroyed a range, also caused damage to equipment and the building interior. But owner Robert Reese hopes to have repairs made in time to reopen by Christmas Eve or shortly after, he said today.

According to the Carmel Fire Department, the blaze was caused by ignition of grease which had been allowed to collect behind a grill. Eighteen men, with three trucks and an ambulance, responded to the fire alarm which was sounded at 12:12 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

The restaurant had only recently been opened by Mr. and Mrs. Reese, who said new range equipment had to be ordered from Los Angeles and the re-opening date depends on its early arrival here.

Contrast Between West Berlin And East Berlin Best Pro-West Propaganda, Durell Decker Says

In her last letter to her parents, published in the Pine Cone, Durell Decker, a college student traveling in Europe ended with the remark, "Tomorrow I will cross through the barbed wire."

This week she tells of her experiences in East Berlin.

"My visit to East Berlin was quite an experience," Durrell begins. "I went across the line on Fredierichstrasse, nicknamed Checkpoint Charlie and left my name with two military policemen who received their basic training at Fort Ord and told me they liked the Monterey Peninsula very much.

"Checkpoint Charlie is the only place at which Americans can cross into East Berlin. In addition to my name, passport number, address both at home and abroad, I had to give a time at which I expected to be back in West Berlin to the MPs.

"I went beyond the wall at 11:00 o'clock in the morning and returned at 4:00 in the afternoon, an hour before the time I set for my return. If I had not returned by 5:00, they would have started looking for me.

"Before I take you on a journey through East Berlin, I will mention the money exchange. The rate is one West German mark (four of these to an American dollar) to four East German marks. Since August 13, the day East Berlin began building the wall around West Berlin, East Berlin has not accepted West German money and uses its own aluminum currency.

"In West Berlin the four to one rate is accepted, but in East Berlin the rate is one for one. Therefore it appears to be to one's advantage to change money in West Berlin. However, since West Berlin's exchange rate makes East Berlin money almost worthless, there are a few problems.

"In order for foreigners to purchase anything in East Berlin, one must show a receipt from an East German bank which states how many West German marks one has changed into East German currency. The receipt is dated.

"In East Berlin I had to hand over my passport to an East German policeman who passed it through a curtained peephole window which I later learned was for the purpose of getting a really good look at one, to compare one's passport description, also to check the passport number to see whether or not one is an enemy of Communism. For example, anyone who has ever written anything that was printed and was against the Communist doctrine is not allowed in East Berlin. Anyone having 'questionable' political convictions or relatives in East Berlin is not allowed in, either.

"I got through this stage all right. After the man behind the curtain was satisfied with private glimpses at me, I was herded into a little room just off the sidewalk. I was asked if I had any money and if so, could they please see it. I had only West German money, but they asked if I had any East German marks. I said I hadn't.

"Finally the guards were satisfied and returned my passport and I was on my way through a maze of East German guards.

"If East and West Berlin were

City hall is looking better every day—inside and out. This week walls of the council chambers, recently paneled for a memorial art museum, are being painted. Outside all the ivy and myrtle that was stealing food from a fine oak at the side entrance has been rooted up. The area has been cultivated and leveled where necessary. Three low spreading cypresses have been planted and more natural planting, including ceanothus, will occupy the area. A retaining wall of Carmel stone surrounds the oak and defines a new patio. The oak has been trimmed.

A rough cement pathway with rustic redwood rail now leads up the formerly slippery path from the parking lot.

Seventh Graders At Sunset Describe Christmas Feelings

Thursday of last week, Mrs. Beatrice Wiegman, seventh grade teacher at Sunset School, asked her pupils to write a short piece on the subject, What Christmas Means To Me. Several of the young persons' feelings about this season of the year follow:

Christmas is a holy day and a day of prayer because it is the birthday of Christ. It is also a day of gaiety and a day to give and get presents. It is a day of opening presents under the Christmas tree. The night before Christmas is a time of anxious waiting for the morning. I usually can't go to sleep because I'm so anxious. We eat a big dinner on Christmas night and then look again at our presents. —Terry Mosolf.

Christmas means getting out of school, of course. But that is not the main point. Christmas also means hiding gifts until they are wrapped; going shopping; and getting together with relatives and family. Christmas is a time when we buy a tree and decorate it until it satisfies us. Christmas means baking cookies and roasting turkeys. To feel the warmth of the house is a happy feeling. And on the "Lord's" day one jumps out of bed and goes to the room where the tree stands. It looks happy and proud, maybe because it knows it has made us happy. Yes, Christmas is a happy time. This is the only way I can say, "Christmas is here." —Mary Kim.

Christmas means to me a time to be thankful for what I have, not a time to see how many presents I can get. It is a time to give, not receive. It's also a time to be satisfied with what I have because some people are not even in a house on Christmas day.

When I was a little boy, I thought it was a time to see how many presents I could get. I used to get mad at my sister if she had something better than I had. But when I got older I learned the full meaning of Christmas. I learned it was better to give than to receive. —John Rennels.

Christmas is a wonderful holiday. I love to see the happy shining faces of the people around me. I like to give to others, and to be fair, I like to receive things, too. I await the knocking on the door, the hurrying of little feet, the opening of the door, then the excited cries for Santa Claus. Christmas is to celebrate Christ's birthday, and so I like to stop and look at our manger scene. Then I look at our Christmas tree with its beautiful colored lights twinkling and shining, and I feel all that Christmas means to me.

—Becky Juarez.

To me, Christmas means many things. It means the wrapping of presents, the shopping, the happiness, the Christmas tree with glass ornaments and twinkling lights, the bells, the pageants, the caroling, the gifts, the churches, and the Christmas cards. But, most of all, I think, to me, Christmas means family togetherness.

—Mary Faulkner.

Christmas is a joyous time. A time to be religious as well as to have fun. The fun of Christmas, I think, begins when you decorate your Christmas tree. You smell the pine needles as you place the shining balls on its branches. You put the lights on and they glow with a serene light. As you set the star on the top, you think of the Star of Bethlehem where Jesus was born so long ago. This is what I think of when Christmas comes.

—Shelley Smith.

Christmas to me is a time of giving and receiving. A time for beautiful trees and decorations. A time to be joyous and to have fun. Christmas is a time when long ago Christ was born in a stable in Bethlehem. Christmas is a time when everyone is busy baking and decorating. A time when on Christmas Eve Saint Nicholas comes down every chimney to give gifts to everyone and to fill every stocking. A time for singing and caroling . . . I think.

—Colleen Coggin.

Christmas, to me, is a time of joy and laughter. It is a time to give presents and be happy. The sight of a decorated Christmas tree with lights and glitter gives one a warm feeling. The presents as they lie under the tree seem to

Retarded Children Benefit Broadcast Open To The Public

The doors of All Saints' Episcopal Church will be open to everyone Saturday evening from 6:00 to 7:00 o'clock during an hour's live broadcast of a concert for the benefit of the Peninsula's retarded children. Station KSBW has donated this hour of free radio time, and with the permission of the Reverend David Hill the church will be used as a studio for this special occasion.

Under the musical direction of the Reverend H. M. M. Nicholas, soloists and the All Saints' Boys' Choir will sing a variety of songs not confined solely to the Christmas season. Among the singers will be Miss Frances Hall of Carmel, who will also play the autoharp.

Donations in aid of the children will be requested over the air during the broadcast and may be mailed to KSBW - Retarded Children, 238 John Street, Salinas.

No Time To Lose If West Is To Survive Soviets Dr. Towster Tells WAC

BY C. A. DE CAMP

Speaking on the subject, Khrushchev's Blueprint for the Future, Dr. Julian Towster, professor of political science at the University of California and former chief, USSR foreign policy section, for the U. S. State Department, addressed a rapt audience of members of the World Affairs Council at Carmel High School last Friday evening and stated that the West is in its eleventh hour of survival in the battle for freedom from Communism.

"To comprehend things Communistic," referred to in 1939 by Winston Churchill as "posing a riddle within an enigma wrapped in a mystery," Dr. Towster stated it is best to start so serious a study upon a light note.

He then gave the description of an elephant by writers of various nationalities to indicate the complexity of the Americans' problem in relation to understanding the Russians.

To the American writer, said Dr. Towster, the elephant poses an opportunity for the development of bigger and better elephants; to the English writer, one of the larger objects of the hunt; to the German, an introduction to the life and times of the tusked pachyderm; to the French, an inquiry into and exposition of the love life of the elephant; to the Russian, a classic example of the development of early Russian husbandry; to the Czech, a Soviet model for Czech emulation.

From this, indicated Dr. Towster, it may be gleaned that in the Russian riddle, all things of any nature have their origin in Russia and are, primarily, to be imitated.

"Unless we know and understand Marx," declared Dr. Towster, "nothing the Russian thinks and does, makes sense.

"To the Russian, only he can be right, all others wrong, and all wisdom began with Karl Marx, the fountainhead of all knowledge and the way-shower of the future," he added.

Since Marx predicated his whole thesis on an interpretation of history, there can be nothing in the world of any validity which is at variance with history, according to Marx, he pointed out.

"Nor can anything be done to change the inexorable course of history, so the final dominance of Marxism is inevitable to Russians," Dr. Towster claimed.

He emphasized this remark by quoting the Marx Manifesto, "The history of all hitherto existing society is the history of class struggle — now split into two great classes directly facing each other, the bourgeoisie and the proletariat — the bourgeoisie has resolved personal worth into exchange value — and in place thereof — and of numberless chartered freedoms . . . substituted naked, shameless, direct brutal exploitation.

"The proletariat is without property — cannot become masters — their present mission is to destroy all previous securities for, and insurance of, individual property."

The history of all hitherto existing society, is the history of class struggle—in the early epochs of history there was always a manifold gradation of social rank, according to Marx, Dr. Towster declared. Our epoch, the epoch of the bourgeoisie, has the distinctive feature of having simplified class antagonisms and is now split into the two great classes, in Marxian dialectic, he stressed.

The crux of Soviet history, for their purposes, is divided into definable epochs, he continued. In the epoch of Lenin, the elevation of the proletariat to its assigned role of destructionist was the order of the day. The epoch of Stalinism was the epoch of Imperialism. In the program of history, the imperialist must be destroyed in the process of accomplishing the Marxist strategy . . . the revolution of the proletariat. At this time Dr. Towster emphasized, the destruction of imperialism, must of necessity be, for the Russians, to take the path of combat parity, followed by supremacy in nuclear warfare munitions.

Understandably, he said, this program must take time, and be a time of relatively little international activity, a time of stalling off of other nations by provoking no incidents from which easy withdrawal may not be made and to interrupt progress towards military supremacy.

Stalin's rigid regime of austerity, incident to arms production against consumer production, was pursued with great determination and substantive results. The Khrushchev epoch opened with a well-prepared military status.

Now, as envisioned by Soviet leaders, Dr. Towster said, military and nuclear parity has been attained and the time has arrived for an epoch of revolution.

To foment revolution clearly is the Khrushchev mission, Dr. Towster remarked. Khrushchev has assiduously cultivated, and is cultivating this mission, he added.

In order to condition the Russian people to their new role in progress, apparently Khrushchev deems it desirable to wipe out all

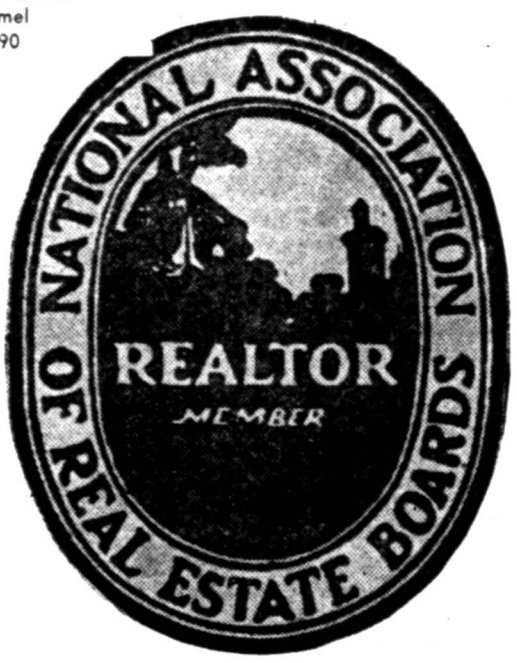
HAPPY HOLIDAYS



Business Men Plan New Organization, Main Street League

Everyone in business on his own, or interested in any way in the continuance of individual business enterprise in this country, is urged by Gunnar Norberg, temporary chairman, and Vernon Hurd, temporary secretary, to attend the initial dinner meeting of the tentatively named Main Street League, to be held at the Mark Thomas Inn January 12, starting at 7:30 o'clock in the evening.

Speaker at this first meeting of the Main Street League will be William A. Burkett, president of the Security State Bank in Pacific Grove, and former Superintendent of Banks for the State of California. His subject will be Liberty and Individual Enterprise.

Reason for the launching of the Main Street League is a request from the Small Business Committee of the United States Senate for "specific proposals" to control burgeoning big business and to see that individual enterprise keeps its place in the American economy.

Immediate cause for the request from the Senate Small Business Committee for the "specific proposals" mentioned, was a wire sent last month by a group of Monterey County business people to that committee. The wire was triggered by an article which appeared in the September 25 issue of the weekly magazine, U. S. News & World Report, and which was entitled Special Report on Retailing.

A reply to the wire was written by Raymond D. Watts, legal counsel for the Senate Small Business Committee, who said that Senator John Sparkman, chairman of that Committee, shared the views expressed in the wire, and that the Committee would "welcome" the "specific proposals" for needed legislation, as already mentioned. It is an effort to establish a group to gestate and to integrate and to forward such "specific proposals" to the Senate Committee, that the Main Street League is to be launched at the dinner meeting. Reservations may be made by calling Gunnar Norberg at MAyfair 4-2424, sending him a card at Box 1500, Carmel, by telephoning Vernon Hurd at Holman's in Pacific Grove, or by communicating with the Mark Thomas Inn.

Vernon Hurd, secretary pro tem of the organization, wishes particularly to emphasize that the dinner meeting isn't just for the 29 business people who signed the original wire to the Senate Small Business Committee, but for any and all others who share the concern of that group for the maintenance of individual home-owned enterprise in the United States.

Carmel signers of the wire, in addition to Norberg, were: Frank Putnam, Mark Raggett, Corum B. Jackson, Harold and Walter Nielsen, Gladys McCloud, James M. Rowe, George J. Fortier, William T. Adams, Barbara Norberg, Les Laky, James Burgess and Dale Leidig.

Vernon D. Bagley, above, superintendent of Soledad Union School District, yesterday announced he was a candidate for the position of Monterey County Superintendent of Schools.

"This decision has been made following a considerable amount of deliberation concerning what I think is needed to further and improve the education of boys and girls of Monterey County," Mr. Bagley stated. "While I feel that our county has good schools, it has become increasingly evident that our children need the best of schools if they are to face the problems which have been thrust upon the world," he added.

Mr. Bagley, 36 years old, has been superintendent of Soledad District for six years, also president of the Soledad Rotary Club, first vice-commander of the Soledad American Legion Post, treasurer of Monterey County Elementary School Administrators Association, and Soledad's Civil Defense Director.

He is a graduate of Pepperdine College and has done postgraduate work at Sacramento and San Francisco State colleges. He and his wife, Margaret, have two children. Their home is in Soledad.

Daughter For Melones

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Melones of the United States Naval Facility at Point Sur welcomed a daughter, Stasia, born December 6 at the Peninsula Community Hospital.

Public Invited To Hear Dr. Hart Talk On Chinese Poetry

The evening of December 28 will be a highlight in the year for Arena Blanca Chapter, Chaparral Poets, when Dr. Henry H. Hart of San Francisco speaks before the group. Dr. Hart will have as his subject, Chinese Poets and Poetry.

An international authority on both Chinese and Japanese poetry, having studied under native teachers, Dr. Hart has traveled extensively in the Far East, and since 1915 has lectured on Chinese and allied subjects on radio, television, and before numerous organizations. He has also assembled oriental art for collectors.

Though primarily planned for the local poetry group, the lecture will be open to the poetry-minded public. This meeting will be an open house to give those interested an opportunity to become acquainted with members of the local chapter of the California Federation of Chaparral Poets. The chapter was organized six years ago, and is one of the most active among 29 chapters located throughout the State.

The group meets monthly, with emphasis on individual creative expression as well as study and discussion of contemporary poets and poetry. The chapter annually sponsors, together with the Pine Cone, a peninsula high school poetry contest.

An invitation is extended to all who would enjoy hearing Dr. Hart. The lecture will take place at the Carmel Art Gallery on Dolores Street starting at 8:00 o'clock in the evening.

be proud of themselves. Gallant Christmas is truly a time of joy and laughter. —Ronald Horn.

Christmas is a time when joyous carols are sung. It is also the day our dear Lord was born. On Christmas night I think of Jesus in that stable with the three wise men. It is sorrowful to think that he was born to die on the Cross. So, in my opinion, Christmas is not only a happy day, but also a sad one. —Raymond Burst.

Christmas means many things but the most important is the birth of Christ. With all the rushing around we do before Christmas, we sometimes forget the real meaning of the day. Everyone seems to be at peace with the world at Christmas time. People seem to smile more easily and to live happier lives. Because of this happiness it seems normal to give more pleasantly and to receive without thinking so much of the gift, rather the thought behind it. —Barbara Coss

Christmas means to me that Christ was born and we celebrate Christmas for him. Christmas means happiness, love, kindness and friendliness.

Christmas is joy throughout one's heart. Love is exploding on every side.

Christmas is beautiful with lights shining. Trees are green and lovely. That is what I think of Christmas. —Linda Zanides.

TOWN HOUSE PROGRAM

On Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock at the Carmel Foundation Town House, Samir Mansour will talk on Christmas in the Holy Land. An instructor at the Army Language School, Mr. Mansour will bring with him a friend in costume, and will have on exhibit some of the handcraft of the country.

There will be no classes during the week between Christmas and New Year's, but Town House will be open on Christmas Day with special activities planned. Call MA 4-1588 for particulars.

John Ameil

John Ameil, long-time Carmel resident and Carmel Valley rancher, died Friday morning in a local hospital after having been ill for a short time. He was 57 years old.

Born December 6, 1904, in New Bedford, Massachusetts, he came to California with his family 50 years ago, settling first in Santa Cruz, and coming to Carmel ten years later.

For 35 years, Mr. Ameil operated the Hatton artichoke ranch at the mouth of Carmel Valley. He retired from ranching in 1957.

On December 21, 1931, he was married to Julia McEldowney. The couple maintained a home for many years at Mission Street and Fourth Avenue.

In addition to Mrs. Ameil, survivors include two sons, Robert John Ameil of Pacific Grove, and Sp4 Richard Evan Ameil of Fort Lewis, Washington; a daughter, Miss Ruth Elaine Ameil of Carmel; a brother, Joseph Ameil of Santa Cruz; and a grandson, Robert John Ameil Jr., of Pacific Grove.

Services were held Monday morning in the Dorney and Farlinger Memorial Chapel. Dr. K. Fillmore Gray of the Church of the Wayfarer officiated. Interment followed at Cementerio El Encinal, Monterey.

Music On The Peninsula

By Mary Lindsay-Oliver

Music in the churches is naturally important at this season, but it is impossible to attend all the interesting programs. I went to the Presbyterian Vesper Services. This included quite an elaborate pageant, The Adoration of Kings and Shepherds, preceded by their Junior Choir and soprano soloist Karen Steinke who opened the Christmas story with Adams' Holy Night. Carols were sung by both the Junior and Sanctuary Choirs with Fred Lewis at the organ. He opened with a Rhapsody of old carol melodies and closed with a postlude on Adeste Fideles. Twenty angels dressed in white robes with tinseled crowns, shepherds and kings, attended Mary and Joseph in an impressive procession down the aisles. In my childhood in Scotland, no such scene would have taken place in strict Presbyterianism, but how much more vivid the story is made by pageantry than by the mere reading of it from the Bible, especially for children.

At Sunset School last week I stepped in to hear their carols, but having lost the program cannot give names. Of all school choruses heard in this locality it was a decided advance, since Sunset's music instructor knows how to handle young voices so that pitch, modulation and sweetness, also an attitude of devotion to the thought in the selections were truly musical and refreshing.

The Monterey College Chorus under Dr. Harvey Marshall gave a program at the college I was sorry to miss. John Farr conducted the Girl Scouts at the Plaza on Wednesday afternoon, and the Youth Center presented performances at Sunset, the second of which will be reviewed next week. The Monterey Evangelical Baptist Church is giving an out-door presentation of Holy Night daily. On Christmas Eve, All Saints' will hold its midnight service preceded by the usual singing of carols which is always an impressive service, with people greeting each other afterwards in the first hour of Christmas Day. May that day be happy for all is the wish of this columnist!

HENRY MILLER HOME

Expected in Big Sur on Saturday is author Henry Miller, who has been traveling for the past several months in Europe and the United States. According to a member of his family, Mr. Miller will remain over Christmas in the Big Sur area, at Partington Ridge.

BOXING DAY

Still holding to an old, and very pleasant tradition, this year will be Babs and Richard P. (Dick) Richardson who own and operate The Casual Shop. They will close their business on the day after Christmas which according to old English custom is Boxing Day.

"In the old days people always stayed home on Boxing Day," Mr. Richardson says. "And all the people who had served you through the year, the milkman, paper boy, woodman, grocer, postman, came around to the door and were given a Christmas box.

"It marked the end of the rush season for tradesmen, and gave them two days instead of just Christmas Day to recover from the turmoil of the season. It's a national holiday in Britain, and in Canada too, of course." The Richardsons are from Canada and have observed Boxing Day every year they have been in Carmel.

Christmas In Carmel Churches

The spiritual message of Christmas will be presented this Sunday, Christmas Eve, at both morning, afternoon and evening services in Carmel churches. There will also be Christmas Day observances at Carmel Mission Basilica, All Saints' Episcopal Church, and Carmel Presbyterian Church.

Special seasonal music will be part of these services. At Carmel's oldest church, the Mission Basilica, a High Pontifical Mass will be sung by a boys' choir in the church which was built by Father Junipero Serra nearly 200 years ago. Choral and organ music will be featured at the Church of the Wayfarer and the Carmel Presbyterian Church. Following is a detailed account of Christmas observances in local churches.

Carmel Mission Basilica

A solemn Pontifical Mass will be celebrated at Carmel Mission Basilica at midnight on Christmas Eve by His Excellency the Most Reverend Harry A. Clinch, D.D. Music for the Mass will be sung by the Junipero Serra High School Choir of Monterey.

Christmas Day there will be masses at the Mission at 7:00, 8:00, 9:00, 10:00, 11:00 and 12:15 o'clock.

Confession will be heard on Saturday from 10:00 o'clock till noon, 2:00-5:30 in the afternoon, and 7:00-10:00 o'clock in the evening. No confessions will be heard on Sunday.

Church of the Wayfarer

There will be Christmas services at the Church of the Wayfarer on Sunday at 9:30 and 11:00 o'clock. The Chapel Singers, directed by John Farr, will sing What Strangers Are These?, a Scottish carol; How Still and Tiny, Polish carol; Lute Book Lullaby, Oldroyd; and Alleluia, Bach.

Mrs. Connell Carruth, organist, will play as prelude, Walloon Christmas Rhapsody by Ferrari; Noel, Daquin; and Caravan of the Magi, Edmundson. As offertory her selection will be Puer Nobis Nasciter by Le Begue. Her postlude will be French Noel, The Betrothal of Joseph and Mary, arranged by Dickinson.

Dr. K. Fillmore Gray will present a Christmas Meditation entitled Out of the Stable.

At the 11:00 o'clock Christmas Eve Service at night, Dr. Gray will read traditional and contemporary Christmas stories. The Chapel singers will sing, under Mr. Farr's direction, Gentle Jesus Meek and Mild and Mary's Slumber Song. Mrs. Carruth will play as organ selections, Break Forth, O Beauteous Light, Bach; Darkness Is Falling, Austrian Traditional; Ave Maria, Arcadelt; From the Depths of My Heart, Kreckel. Her postlude will be Alleluia by Thompson.

Carmel Presbyterian Church

Sunday morning, December 24, at Carmel Presbyterian Church, there will be identical 9:30 and 11:00 o'clock services, with the minister, Dr. Joseph M. Ewing, preaching on the theme: A Visited Planet.

The soloist, Karen Steinke, will sing Rain, by H. V. Stewart, and Sweet Little Jesus Boy, by Johnson. The Sanctuary Choir under the direction of Mrs. Richard Chanslor will present Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming, by Praetorius and What Child Is This, an English melody.

Fred Lewis, organist, will include the following in his selections: Chartres, by Purvis; Noel,

Christmas In Carmel Churches

by d'Aquin; Christmas Pastorale, by Harker; Praise Be To Thee, Lord Jesus Christ, by Scheidt; and Noel Polonais, by Guilmant.

On Christmas morning in the sanctuary of the Carmel Presbyterian Church at 10:00 o'clock there will be a short service of carols, prayers and scripture reading. All are invited to attend this service of praise.

Miss Mary Kersting will sing He Shall Feed His Flock and Come Unto Me from Handel's Messiah. Fred Lewis at the organ will play A Boy Is Born In Bethlehem, by Buxtehude; A Rose Bursts Forth, by Deigendesch; Sheep May Safely Graze, by Bach; and The Kings of the Orient, by Cronhafn.

Dr. Ewing will present the Homily during this Christmas morning service.

All Saints' Church

All Saints' Episcopal Church will hold Christmas Eve Services at 11:00 o'clock at night on Sunday. Christmas Day there will be a choral celebration of the Holy Communion at 10:30 in the morning.

The children's Creche Service will be on Christmas Eve at 9:15 o'clock in the morning.

The rector, the Reverend David Hill, will be assisted in the Christmas services by the Reverend H. M. M. Nicholas and the Reverend Clifford E. Wilson, chaplain at the Robert Louis Stevenson School for Boys.

On Christmas Eve at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon, a Community Christmas Eve Service will be held at Santa Lucia Chapel, Big Sur. This service will be sponsored by the Big Sur Episcopal Mission and include carol singing and a Nativity pageant, presented by children. There will also be a celebration of the Holy Communion with the Reverend David Hill officiating.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

On the afternoon of Friday, December 22, tomorrow, that is, this library will continue its custom of serving coffee to patrons who drop in between the hours of three and five. The library will be closed on Christmas Day and on December 31 and January 1 also. Please do plan to drop in for a cup of coffee on Friday afternoon, and to check out all the books you will need before both weekends.

The American Heritage Book of the Indians goes into circulation this week. It has a few reservation cards waiting for it, because patrons seeing it in the small display case in the reading room decided that it looked interesting and they would like to read it. It is really pretty tremendous, a very complete handling of the subject of our first citizens, from a popular and pictorial standpoint. It is authentic and reliable, and beautiful.

The new novel from Barnaby Conrad starts circulating this week. It is entitled Dangerfield, and is the story of an American novelist named Dangerfield, and his life complications due to his attempt to repair the long estrangement between himself and his son, David, complications which were deepened by the fact that the son was attracted by his father's mistress. It may be that the reader will decide this book is really the story of David Dangerfield, rather than that of his father. No matter whose story it is, it is well done and has had very good reviews.

The publishers claim that Hortense Calisher's novel False Entry is "one of the most unusual novels ever to be published anywhere" and that is really a large order. Whether or not you subscribe to this superlative praise, you will enjoy False Entry if for no other reason than the savoring of Calisher's enviable way with words, a way which was polished by the fact that she spent six years working on this novel. It has a lovely sound.

A collection of short stories by V. S. Pritchett is entitled When My Girl Comes Home. No need to mention that this is the title of the lead story in the collection.

By Hans Habe is the big book entitled Ilona, another of those huge novels so popular with publishers today. First published in German, it was translated by Michael Bullock and then adapted by Catherine Hunter, whatever adapted means in this case. Hans Habe is now an American citizen, due to his having served in the American army during the past great war. The action of the book takes place in Vienna and other great cities of Europe, and covers the time from Emperor Franz Joseph to the present.

From all of us to all of you, the merriest kind of Christmas!

Merry Christmas

PADRE CAGERS WIN PAIR FROM PALMA HIGH

Carmel High's varsity and lightweight basketball teams were given severe tests by the scrappy Palma quintets last Saturday night in the closing games of 1961, but superior skill at the free-throw line pulled both games out of the fire for the Padres. The Little Padres edged the Palma lights, 43 to 40, with Jose Fernandez's 19-point effort showing the way for the Red & Gray. Carmel's varsity finished in front, 53 to 50, as Pete Morse and Jim Brown continued hot shooting streaks to lead the Padre scorers. Carmel's winless junior-varsity squad was stymied in its quest for victory number one as the Palma Braves posted a 37-25 victory over Coach Klaumann's crew.

Although practice sessions have been slated for the Padres during the vacation period, there are no games on the docket and the next action will find the Carmel lads taking on Hollister in league play on January 5.

Carmel's smooth lightweight team continues undefeated in regular play, holding victories over Junipero Memorial High, Salinas and Palma. The Little Padres dropped a decision to Cubberly in the Salinas Tournament after putting up a fine showing against the tournament winners. Palma's fired-up Limiteds gave Coach Lippstreu's charges a rousing battle Saturday night, outshooting the Little Padres from the floor but falling down in the free-throw department. The visitors garnered 17 field goals to 14 for Carmel but the Padre lights clicked in at the free-throw line by sinking 15 charity tosses. Speedy Jose Fernandez put on a fine scoring exhibition for the Little Padres, hitting for 6 field goals and 7 free throws. Al Arndt (7), Richard Wise (6), and Jack DeWitt (6) came through with clutch scores when the going was tight in the late stages of the final period.

A surprisingly good Palma varsity kept the heat on Coach Lawitzke's well-drilled varsity gang and came within a couple of fouls of pulling off a startling upset. Like the lightweights, the Chieftain varsity outshot the Padres from the floor and lost the verdict via the free-throw route. The Palma crew poured through 23 field goals to 21 for the Padres, but Carmel won the battle of the free-throw line, 11 to 5. 20 points by big Pete Morse and 19 by veteran Jim Brown paved the way for the Red & Gray's narrow victory. In addition to a prolific scoring performance, Morse also topped all the rebounders in the game and played a solid brand of defense. Teddy Leidig, Carmel's come-through guy, put on another of his patented clutch performances by garnering the winning points as time was running out on the clock. Palma's well-balanced quintet was paced by Manuel Souza (18), Rudy Hernandez (13), and Wayne Garius (12).

With talented varsity performer Rudy Hernandez meshing 19 points, the Palma junior-varsity came with a rush in the second half to pin another defeat on the hard-trying Padre jayvees. Al Nishimura meshed 4 field goals to lead the Carmel scorers while Stan Cummings, Bob Larson and Steve Johnson were outstanding on defense.

BING CROSBY PRO-AM GOLF JANUARY 18-21

With some new faces, more players, more television, and the addition of the Peter Hay Memorial Hole-in-One event, the $50,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament is set to unfold at the Del Monte Forest courses on January 18-21. Rated the most colorful golf tournament in the world, the Crosby is also the most worthwhile since all proceeds from the star-studded event go to charity. All of the Monterey Peninsula Youth Centers have been aided by funds from the Crosby Tournament and most of them wouldn't be in existence without the Crosby help.

The entry list for this year's Crosby has been increased by six pros and six amateurs, making 312 pairs teeing off for the 54 holes played during the first three days. Play rotates around Cypress, Monterey Peninsula Country Club, and Pebble Beach courses for the first three days with Sunday's finals scheduled over the rugged Pebble Beach layout. Stirring the most excitement among the touring professionals will be the pro debut of Jack Nicklaus who won this year's National Amateur at Pebble Beach. In the Amateur, Nicklaus played the treacherous Pebble Beach course as though he owned it, clipping 17 strokes off par during the tournament. Joining the amateur ranks for a try at the Crosby will be the New York slugger Mickey Mantle who will be making his first start in the National Pro-Am.

In memory of the late Peter Hay, for years the golf pro at Pebble Beach, the first annual Peter Hay Memorial Hole-in-One Tournament will be held as part of the Crosby Tournament. The charity affair will be held at the Peter Hay Par-Three Golf Course from January 14-21.

This year's television coverage will include a Saturday coast-to-coast hookup as well as the regular Sunday hour long show covering the finals.

Tickets for the Crosby are $3 for each of the first two days and $4 each for the second two days. A two-day ticket for Saturday and Sunday is $7 while a tournament ticket for all four days is $10.

The Carmel Youth Center's new trailer-type concession stands will be spotted at convenient locations around the courses to tend to the appetites of the Crosby galleries.

THROUGH THE HOOP

Carmel's Russ Wise enjoyed his finest shooting night as a Lobo cager when the MPC gang dropped a narrow 53-52 decision to the Fresno State Frosh. The 6-6 sophomore tanked 21 points to top all the scorers and turned in a fine all-around floor game. Plagued by a rash of personal fouls, the Lobos saw their five starters foul out early in the second half against the College of Sequoias and eventually lose the overtime battle, 62 to 59. The Lobos are at Foothill College this week for the Coast JC Tournament and will travel to Santa Maria for the Hancock Tournament on December 28. . . . Coach Regis Hurley, basketball coach at Junipero Memorial High last season, is now the mentor at San Lorenzo Valley High where he has banded together a talented quintet for the Cougars. Junipero journeyed to Felton for a try at the Cougars last Saturday and San Lorenzo edged the Cards, 45 to 44. With the wily Hurly at the helm, the Cougars could be a threat in B-division CCAL play this season. . . . Dick Smith, ex-Gilroy High basketball great, is the top scorer for the University of California Bears this season and has been astounding Bay Area fans with his amazingly accurate jump shot. Twice the MVP in the Carmel Tournament, Smith was one of the most popular players ever to perform in the Carmel hoop festival and he is proving a real scoring threat for the Golden Bears. Gilroy's smooth basketball teams have always been admired for their precise execution of play patterns as coached by Bob Hagen and the Mustangs are charter members of the Carmel hoop tournament. However, rumors have it that the Mustangs won't be invited to the Carmel Tournament this year because of strained relations between the Padres and Mustangs —with Monterey and Fremont excluded last year, the tourney's charter members are rapidly becoming extinct. . . . A look at early season performances by B-division schools in the Coast Counties Athletic League shows Carmel, Gilroy, King City and San Lorenzo Valley with most of the talent and the other schools building for next year. Carmel, recent winner of the Gustine Tournament, has the tallest team in the league and should be a good match for the smooth Gilroy crew. King City has a veteran aggregation with good height and fine speed. Led by Steve Rodriguez, an all-league selection last season, the San Lorenzo Valley squad is small but has excellent outside shooting. Although Live Oak lost all the varsity squad by graduation, the Acorn gained a new gymnasium and that should be good news for the other schools throughout the league. B-division coaches always felt they were 10 points behind before the tip-off when they had to play in the old Live Oak wind tunnel. The Acorns are sponsoring an invitational tournament next week to show off the new pavilion.

The memory of the late Peter Hay of Pebble Beach, above, colorful Scot and dean of golf teaching professionals, will be honored at a hole-in-one golf tournament to be held at Pebble Beach January 14-21. All proceeds from the event will go towards the Peter Hay Memorial Physical Therapy Department of the two and one-half million dollar, non-profit Community Hospital being built on Carmel Hill.

The hole-in-one tournament will run concurrently with the annual Bing Crosby Pro-Amateur Golf Championship January 18-21, but will be open to everyone, not invitational as the Crosby.

The event was suggested by Samuel F. B. Morse, chairman of the board of directors of Del Monte Properties. John Gardiner, Pebble Beach sports director, will be in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis K. Schutz, above, pause for a moment before cutting their wedding cake at the reception following their marriage on December 9 in St. Mary's Catholic Church in Lakeport, Lake County. The bride is the former Catherine Suzanne Abel Belvail, daughter of Mrs. J. O. Belvail, former Carmel resident now living in Kelseyville, and Bernard Abel of Lake County. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph G. Schutz of Jacks Peak.

White stock and red carnations arranged with English holly decorated the church. White Christmas trees, doves and bells with an arrangement of holly and blossoms similar to those used in the church provided a Yuletide atmosphere at the reception held in the Finley Grange Hall.

Suzanne was escorted to the altar by her father. Her ivory bridal satin gown had a sweetheart neckline, three-quarter length sleeves and a floor length bell-shaped skirt. A crown of pearlized orange blossoms held her fingertip veil in place and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and orchids. Her long ivory kid gloves were those worn by her grandmother, Mrs. Evalyn McLaughlin of Salinas, at her own wedding 55 years ago.

Suzanne's bridal attendants were dressed alike in electric blue satin dresses with scoop necklines, cap sleeves and bell shaped skirts. Their satin shoes and net veiled single satin rose headdresses matched their frocks and their bouquets were of white and red carnations. They were Mrs. Jerry Stuefloten (Donna Sands) of San Jose, matron of honor, and Vivian Lee Davis of Carmel, both former classmates of the bride at Carmel High School.

Richard Schetter of Carmel was the groom's best man. Ushers were Philip Benalkin of Lakeport, Jerry Stuefloten of San Jose, and Thomas Crampton of Carmel.

Mrs. Belvail attended her daughter's marriage in a holly berry red faille suit worn with black accessories.

The groom's mother, Mrs Schutz, wore a black and gold silk print sheath dress and black accessories.

After the bride and bridegroom had cut their wedding cake and been toasted in champagne punch, the bride changed before leaving for a honeymoon trip in San Francisco and Yosemite, to a Kelly green wool suit, green feather hat, and black accessories.

The young couple are making their home in Lakeport where the bridegroom is associated with the State of California Fish and Game Department.

Suzanne graduated from Carmel High School in 1959, then attended the University of California at Davis and recently graduated from the San Francisco College of Medical Dental Nursing.

Her husband also is a Carmel High School graduate. He completed his education at Humboldt State College.

Out of town guests at their wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stuefloten, Mrs. Thomas Crampton, Mrs. Verna Davis and Warren Masten, all from Carmel; the bride's grandmother, Mrs. McLaughlin, and Mrs. Ann Alexander of Salinas; Eve Mitchell, Ralph Hancel and Judy Vickery, all of San Francisco; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McLaughlin of Sonoma; Mrs. Florence Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Dean Allen of Piedmont; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Schetter and Mrs. Thelma Cruse of Sacramento; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Braslin and Mr. and Mrs. James Wood and the latters' daughters, all from Carmel; Jeanne Noll, Sandra Scharrer and Sally Benninger from the University of California at Davis, former classmates of the bride; Carolyn Cruse of Berkeley; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Young of Oakland; Leslie Mayer and Adrienne Legrande of Richmond; Mr. and Mrs. F. Barthelmess and their son and daughter from Vallejo; and Mr. and Mrs. W. Christie and children of San Francisco.

Lindsay-Oliver Party

When Miss Mary Lindsay-Oliver was hostess to her friends and students at a Christmas party in her Carmel studio Tuesday evening, the group sang carols in the music teacher's patio, including in the repertoire Miss Lindsay-Oliver's own carol, Christmas Night.

The group singing was followed by individual numbers, including Beatrice Testa singing Holy Night, Gilbert Schoenbrod singing Italian and French arias and Ora Fallis singing The Lost Chord, When Love Is Kind and Amarilli. Two Monterey Peninsula College students, Norman Lausten and Dio Roberts, sang a Christmas duet, We Three Kings, with the group joining them for the refrain.

A holiday buffet, served from a beautifully appointed table and including egg nog and fruit cake, followed the carolling, after which Miss Ora Fallis recited poetry by medieval and modern poets, as well as some of her own poetry.

Miss Lindsay-Oliver's studio was beautifully decorated for the occasion with boughs of evergreen and eucalyptus. The same kinds of boughs, cut in graduated lengths, had been applied to the side of a standing lamp to fabricate a tree which was a thing of beauty.

Reunion In New York Airport

Ellen McKelvey, on her way home from Smith College in Massachusetts to spend Christmas in Carmel with her mother, Mrs. Paul McKelvey, found her flight West was delayed in New York. Disconsolate, Ellen waited. Then she saw the familiar faces of Ken and Charlie Agle, also delayed on their way home for Christmas with their mother, Mrs. Churchill Carmalt; Ken from Franklin and Marshall College in Pennsylvania and Charlie from Connecticut Wesleyan College.

The three Carmelites sat out long hours in the New York airport, happy to be together in their frustrating plight.

At last they took off on a flight scheduled to land in San Francisco. But there was weather trouble and the pilot decided to land in Oakland, and he did, only on a strip two miles from the Oakland airport.

But Ellen, Ken and Charlie's mishaps didn't end when they set foot on California soil. Their baggage was somewhere. Maybe still in New York?

After several trips between the landing strip and the airport, the three tired travelers phoned their respective parents that they were coming the rest of the way to Carmel by bus. They had decided to leave their luggage problems to the airline.

The sun shone and the sea sparkled when they arrived in Carmel yesterday morning, weary but happy.

Dick Ogden Home

Home this week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Murle Ogden, is Richard (Dick) Ogden, whose recent whirlwind trip to the East Coast as a member of the Utah State University football team turned into quite a memorable event, he says.

Members of Dick's team, which played Baylor University at the first annual Gotham Bowl game at the Polo Grounds in New York City, met Mayor Robert Wagner, received the keys to the city and were otherwise treated as celebrities.

After the holidays, Dick will return to his studies at Utah State.

Young Artist

Deniz Cetin, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ismail Cetin, and a third grader at Woods School, will receive a framed certificate of merit from Jack and Jill, well-known children's magazine, for her drawing in color which will appear in the January issue. Deniz's drawing, which was chosen from many hundreds of contributions sent in by children from all over the world, is one of six to be reproduced on a special page in the magazine, a monthly feature in Jack and Jill.

Dr. Hook Breakfasts at Doners'

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Doner in the Carmel Highlands last Wednesday were Mr. and Mrs. John Short of Monterey, and Dr. Sidney Hook, head of New York University Graduate School of Arts and Sciences and currently at the Center of Advanced Study in the Behaviorial Sciences at Stanford, who lectured at Monterey Peninsula College last Friday night.

After breakfast the guests and their host, undaunted by the drizzling rain, went for a walk in Point Lobos Park.

Nancy On Year Book Staff

Arriving home today for the holidays is Nancy Penoyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Penoyer of Rancho Rio Vista, who has been named a member of the staff of Marymount '62, the senior class publication at Marymount College, Palos Verdes Estates, California.

Nancy's engagement to Fred C. Blau of Studio City, California, was recently announced. The young couple plan a September wedding.

Midshipman Chace Arrives

Midshipman Alden Chace, Jr., son of Commander Alden B. Chace, United States Navy (Retired), and Mrs. Chace, flies home today from the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland, to spend Christmas leave with his parents.

A first classman, graduating next June, Alden is a member of the Academy debating team. The Chaces moved to Carmel last year and make their home on Monte Verde Street.

No Time To Lose If West Is To Survive Dr. Towster Tells WAC

allegiance to Stalin and transfer allegiance to himself. Stalin must be totally forgotten.

In this present epoch of Russian revolution, it is thought necessary to build up to incipient revolutionists everywhere, Russia's accomplishments. To provide welfare, such accomplishments must be expressible in terms of tangible material welfare, have promise of better living conditions.

Dr. Towster stated that his observers and contacts behind the Iron Curtain report that the majority of the Russian people have true faith in Khrushchev and pledge him full loyalty. They believe he will fulfill his promises of ever higher standards of living.

In Dr. Towster's observers' opinion, the satisfaction with Khrushchev's communism is on the increase, he emphasized.

The present tactic seems to be the firm consolidation of the Russian people themselves to achieve a socialist welfare state whose advantages will be so apparent to the rest of the world that uncommitted and emerging nations will fall into line with the Soviets of their own accord.

To this end, observed Dr. Towster, the Russian people are promised that the social welfare and economic status of the United States will be equalled by 1970 and that medical, hospital, old-age services, adequate housing for all and consumer standards will equal ours by that time. Also, by 1980 the United States will be surpassed in all production and Russians will have a 34-hour six-day work week.

Dr. Towster warned that the effect of this propaganda, in and out of Russia, is of tremendous impact and may not be lightly regarded by the free world.

In Khrushchev's arsenal of external promotion, great reliance is being and will be placed on the distribution of technical and professional assistance throughout the world to aid backward nations and their indoctrination in the Soviet way of life. Coupled with this, will be a relentless discrediting of the U.S.A. in every way the Russian masters of Russian propaganda can devise, Dr. Towster pointed out.

Khrushchev is riding hard the four horses of his apocalypse. They are: East German absorption in the Soviet Union and neutralization or even alignment of West Germany and the demise of NATO; the elimination of colonialism in the world and Russian sympathy for ex-colonials; revision of the United Nations structure to make it completely an agency of the Soviet Union; disarmament.

To accomplish all or any of these ends, Khrushchev counts very heavily on Western disunity. No opportunity will ever be overlooked by him to incite or augment such disunity and to weaken his opposition, Dr. Towster declared.

If it is to survive, the West must unify to: create and maintain an ever dominant military posture; undertake the upbuilding of social and industrial welfare of former colonial areas; recognize for constructive purposes, the ethnic and cultural heritages common to all of the West, as workable bonds of unity in bringing the West into a united front against the enemy that would destroy it; acquisition of a working understanding of the possibilities in Atlantic Union, as yet greatly misunderstood.

"Let it be understood, that I never would make the last suggestion if I thought that America might lose any of her incomparable individuality by promoting the Atlantic Union, for to me the American ideal is the most precious thing in the world."

"The things I have told you this evening, I told you 11 years ago at your convention at Asilomar. If we were at the eleventh hour then, we are nearer to five minutes of twelve now. There is no time to lose," Dr. Towster admonished in conclusion.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The birth of Christ Jesus, and other highlights from his history as recorded in the four Gospels, will form the background of the Lesson-Sermon at Christian Science church services Sunday.

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Christ Jesus" is the Golden Text from John (12): "I am come a light into the world, that whosoever believeth on me should not abide in darkness."

Scriptural readings include this passage regarding the wise men (Matt. 2): "When they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy. And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary his mother, and fell down, and worshipped him: and when they had opened their treasures, they presented unto him gifts; gold, and frankincense, and myrrh."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy this citation will be read (p. 95): "Led by a solitary star amid the darkness, the Magi of old foretold the Messiahship of Truth. Is the wise man of today believed, when he beholds the light which heralds Christ's eternal dawn and describes its effulgence?"

Brian Casiday at Nesbitts'

"I left Philadelphia Thursday night by air, and didn't get to Carmel till Monday morning," comments Brian Casiday, a student at Saint John's College, Annapolis, Maryland, who is spending the Christmas holidays here with his mother, Mrs. John Nesbitt. The sequence of events was that Brian arrived in Burbank Friday morning, flew up to San Francisco that day, stayed two nights with friends in the East Bay area, and arrived in Carmel by car in the small hours of Monday morning. Meanwhile Mrs. Nesbitt, with her children Penny and Joe, went to San Francisco last Saturday on the Del Monte Express (nine-year-old Joe's first train trip) to spend the night with their old friends Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Tom, and had a reunion with Brian that afternoon. On Sunday the Nesbitts returned home by train and greeted Brian a second time when he finally reached Carmel.

Guests of Mrs. Nesbitt and her family for Christmas will be her mother, Mrs. Nadine Shepard, and her aunt, Mrs. Mary Napton, both of Willows, California.

Mrs. Brey's Class Celebrates

Mrs. Mariquita Brey's adult school class in world literature, which meets every Thursday night at the Carmel High School, at the last meeting before the holidays abandoned its study of Hindu epic poems for half an hour to enjoy coffee and Christmas cakes brought by class members, and to present a small gift to Mrs. Brey.

Nursery School Christmas

Bay School, the little red schoolhouse just south of Carmel on Highway One, was the scene last Friday of the Carmel Parent Nursery School children's Christmas party. Helen Morgenroth, the school dancing instructor, performed a Christmas pantomime dance with the children who acted out the parts of dolls, toy soldiers, and presents. Afterward, the children's decorations on the two trees (brought by Mrs. Dorothy Smythe) were admired, everyone had Christmas cookies, and each child went home with a little basket of candy to start the holidays. "It had been decided by popular vote," says Mrs. Ephraim (Rosa) Doner, "not to eat the candy right away."

Feliz Navidad

Last Thursday night the Spanish class of Carmel Adult School held its Christmas party in the high school music room. After singing carols in Spanish under the leadership of Senor Roberto Franco, instructor, and Roger West, one of the class members, everyone took part in a treasure hunt which led to a money tree, the students' gift to Senor Franco. Refreshments brought by the class were served. On the planning committee were Mrs. Maurine Alvitre, Mrs. Kay Davies and Mrs. Constance Williams.

Mrs. Adams In Memphis

Mrs. Elsie L. Adams writes from Memphis, Tennessee, that she misses "the lovely view of Carmel Valley hills and mountains" which she enjoyed while living here. Her home is now in Memphis, and although she reports it as having a reputation as the quietest and cleanest city in the country, she admits she is a little homesick for Carmel.

Church Women's Meeting

The Women's Association of the Carmel Presbyterian Church held its monthly meeting at 1:00 o'clock this afternoon in Fellowship Hall. In place of the regular luncheon, a tea followed the business and program, and installation of officers took place during the meeting.

Mrs. John L. Wood gave the Christmas message. Special music was furnished by Mrs. H. Spencer Hoyt, soloist, and Mrs. Stanley R. Ostrom, pianist, with group singing of carols. The fellowship committee arranged the tea.

Coskys Enjoying Australia

An unusual Christmas card, a folder containing a tantalizing series of reproductions of paintings of Australian landscapes, has been received from Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Cosky of Carmel, currently travelling on that far continent. The Coskys write, "We're having a lovely time: kangaroo and emu shooting, visiting relatives and friends here." They are expected home in February.

Lynne Is Home

Lynne Campbell, oldest daughter of Judge and Mrs. Gordon Campbell, is home for a welcome two-week vacation from her first year training at Saint Luke's Hospital School of Nursing in San Francisco. The students attend classes at San Francisco City College and take their hospital training at Saint Luke's. Lynne must report back to her duties on Christmas Day, "but she doesn't mind," says her mother; "it's all part of becoming a nurse."

WHAT CAN WE DO ABOUT CHRISTMAS?

Often discussed this time of year is the feeling that something should be done either to return to our Christmas traditions or to replace them with something else if they have lost their meaning.

Sometimes we criticize the secularists for over-commercializing the holidays.

Or we engage in endless talk of the truth or fiction of parthenogenesis, as if we could accept or reject Christmas by some easy theological route.

If you are concerned with such things, you may be interested in what many Unitarians think about Christmas (though one of the characteristics of the Unitarian Church is that there can conceivably be as many thoughts on a subject as there are Unitarians). To us the significance of the teachings of Jesus is far more important than possible strange circumstances surrounding his birth.

We invite you to visit us at Christmas. Our holiday service will be at 11:00 o'clock in the morning of Sunday, December 24, in the Monterey USO building, near Lake El Estero. Reverend Karel V. Vit will be the speaker on, "The Christmas That Never Was."

For more information on Unitarianism, write P. O. Box 251, Pacific Grove, California.

In the spirit of Christmas, we send our greetings and hearty good wishes to our many friends.

Katy and Jesse Are Wed

Candlelight services on Friday at St. John's Presbyterian Church in Berkeley united in marriage Kathleen Schafer (Katy) Fry and Jesse Wallace Corsaut, both of Carmel.

The daughter of Mrs. Marie Voorhis Fry of Carmel and Alfred G. Fry of Pebble Beach, Kathleen is a junior at the University of California at Berkeley and was a 1959 honor graduate of Carmel High School.

The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Jesse H. Corsaut of Los Angeles and the late Jesse H. Corsaut of Hutchinson, Kansas, is a popular member of Carmel's community of artists and is known for his portraiture on both coasts.

Family members and close friends witnessed the simple rites, for which the bride had chosen a short-skirted gown of white silk brocade with long sleeves and a satin pill-box hat with a brief veil.

Her bouquet gave a hint of the holiday season, with white spider chrysanthemums used in combination with holly. Serving as maid-of-honor for her friend was Miss Susan Rawlins, who wore a printed silk frock of aquamarine and lime and carried lime spider chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Fry was clad for her daughter's wedding in a satin ensemble of cinnamon hue, consisting of matching frock and toque with which she wore pale green cymbidium orchids.

Serving his new brother-in-law as best man was Katy's young brother, Timothy Voorhis Fry of Carmel.

Following the wedding, the bridal pair left for a honeymoon in the Sierra, with plans to return to Carmel to establish a home after the holiday season.

Kathleen attended schools in Carmel, serving as editor of her class yearbook at Carmel High. At Cal she was elected to Theta Sigma Phi, women's honorary journalism fraternity. An accomplished musician, she often appeared as a pianist for Peninsula programs.

Jesse, a resident of Carmel for some six years, attended schools in Hutchinson and the Art Students' League in New York City. He will have a one-man show in New York next autumn. In addition to his mother, his family includes two sisters, Miss Aneta Corsaut of Los Angeles and Mrs. Charles Scarlet of New York.

The bride is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Fry of Berkeley and the late Mrs. Andrew Hopper Voorhis of Carmel.

Evening of Music at Shuteses'

Friends gathered at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Milton Shutes last Sunday for a varied and lovely evening of music and Christmas readings. Chamber music, including a Christmas hymn composed by Walter Kelsey in contemporary form, was played by Mr. Kelsey, first violin, Mrs. Shutes, second violin, Marie Sale, viola, and Marjorie Oren, cello. Mrs. Gerrit Henry read The Little Hunchback Zia, a miracle tale by Frances Hodgson Burnett, and Mr. Henry read George Ade's Mr. Payson's Satirical Gifts. Supper was served, and the evening concluded with Marjorie Wurzmann playing compositions by Mozart, Scarlatti, Chopin and Brahms.

Sergeant Westcott in Germany

Army Acting Sergeant George E. Westcott, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Westcott of Carmel, recently participated with other members of the 8th Infantry division in Exercise Main Barge, a V Corps field training exercise in Central Germany.

Westcott, a graduate of Carmel High School in 1959, now assigned to Company B of the division's 12th Engineer Battalion in Dexheim, entered the Army in September 1959, completed basic training at Fort Ord, and went overseas in February 1960.

Blue Jays Welcome Santa

As Blue Jay Nursery School children finished decorating their Christmas tree with golden chains, red lanterns and gay gingerbread boys, before vacation, there was a loud knocking at the door and in came Santa in a beautiful red suit, his arms filled with toys. He soon made friends with even the shyest child, and cleverly found out each child's wants.

It was Johnny Roeder's daddy, Walter Roeder, who flew from his construction job in Las Vegas to be the Blue Jay Santa.

Mrs. Pardee Visits Bateses

Staying with her daughter and son-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Talcott Bates of Jack's Peak, is Mrs. Trevor Pardee of New York City. The Bateses are inviting friends to a cocktail party December 30 to meet Mrs. Pardee.

Among those who are entertaining for Mrs. Pardee during the holidays is Mrs. Philip C. Smith of Jack's Peak, who asked 40 friends to her home for a "shoppers' lunch" on Tuesday. Old friends of Mrs. Pardee's were among the guests, as were Mrs. Smith's daughter Mrs. Vincent Pahl, and her daughter-in-law Mrs. Jeffrey Smith, both visiting here from Fresno. Mrs. Jeffrey Smith is the former Connie Chedester of Carmel.

Spauldings Back From Islands

Home from a two-week vacation in the islands are Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Spaulding of Hatton Fields. Spending most of their time sight-seeing, they headquartered at Hanalei on Kauai, visited Kona, and saw Herb and Ollie Brooks, former Carmel Valley residents, at Kihei on Maui.

Michael Bruno Odello

Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Odello of Hatton Fields are the joyful parents of a new son. Michael Bruno Odello, who weighed seven pounds 10 ounces, was born December 11 at the Peninsula Community Hospital. Sharing in the family happiness are Michael's older brother, John Odello, a freshman at California Polytechnic College, home for the holidays, his sister Clara, a junior at Carmel High School, and his proud grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Calcagno of Moss Landing, and Mr. and Mrs. Battista Odello of Carmel.

Other delighted relatives are two sets of Carmel aunts and uncles, Mr. and Mrs. Emilio Odello and Mr. and Mrs. John Calcagno, and a bevy of cousins, Pam and Carla Odello, and Cynthia, Bobby, Rickie, Chuckie and Maria Calcagno.

Carolee Gives a Luncheon

Carolee Hanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Hanson, entertained at lunch today in the Hanson's Carmel Hills home. Sharing college experiences and holiday plans were, besides the hostess, Julie Campbell, Julie's cousin Diana Reed, a student at Oregon State College, Diane Shields, Lynne Campbell, Mary MacCulloch, Pat Dick, Sally Campbell and Jane Tetley.

ONCE ON ANOTHER DESERT

Once on another desert Mary rode Through twilight's windless chill, that hoof-worn trail
as narrow and steep as ours. Her donkey's load
Was destined for Bethlehem . . . no step must fail.

Now rest, small donkey, rest. How well you carried
The promise of love and hope! How well we know
That a desert of war upon war is starless, arid,
White with the sifting ash of fall-out snow.

Here on our bomb-torn earth we count each blast,
Fashion a name for each new satelite,
Trying to find our long-lost way at last
Out of our caves, into a noon of light.

Oh, Star that led shepherds and kings to that hallowed place,
Lead our sons to a planet of peace through high blue space!

—MAUDE RUBIN.

DECEMBER AT FIVE

Purple mountains rise from the misty sea,
And reach ragged peaks toward the glowing skies.
Soft swirling clouds painted a rosy hue,
Reflect the rays of the sun as it dies.
A V-shape of birds high in the sky,
Points its flight toward a distant shore,
While closely below booms the pound of the surf,
Though the cry of the gull is heard no more.

Alone,
High on a cliff I watch,
As briefly, the world seems to pause,
And then swiftly moves on
Into the waiting night.

—KATHRYN N. SCHULTZ.

Carmel's Largest Family All Ready For Santa Claus

Beardsleys need? "I have two ready to roast, but I may only cook one," Mrs. Beardsley said. "No one eats much for Christmas dinner, and we had only one turkey, a 21-pound one, for Thanksgiving."

"Our observance will be very traditional," she added. "Frank's family and mine have had very similar Christmases in past years. After Mass on Christmas morning, we'll gather around our tree, a fir, with traditional ornaments. I'll prepare the dinner myself and make the dinner rolls, but I get a lot of help from the children."

Mr. and Mrs. Beardsley, both widowed in prior marriages, met last summer after exchanging prayers by mail. Mrs. Beardsley, the former Mrs. Richard North of San Leandro, was left with eight young children, and CWO Beardsley, who is stationed at the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey, with ten. They were wed on September 9 in Carmel Mission Basilica.

CARMEL BOYS WIN AWARDS

Among those receiving awards from Coach George Porter at Monterey Peninsula College's annual football banquet, held at Cerrito's-on-the-Highway last Thursday night, was Fred Bucher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight A. Bucher of Carmel, as outstanding lineman.

Two journalism awards were made by Rod Holmgren, MPC journalism department chairman. Recipients were Reed Nessel of Carmel for outstanding sports reporting and editing since 1959, and, in absentia, Evan Peskin, formerly of Carmel Valley, now living in Arizona, for meritorious service in sports photography.

AUTO-PEDESTRIAN MISHAP

An auto-pedestrian accident at Carpenter and First yesterday at 12:13 o'clock in the morning caused apparently minor injuries of undetermined extent to Charles Willingham of Monterey when he darted into the street and was struck by a late-model station wagon driven by Robert Leonard Larson, 16, of Carmel.

According to police reports, Willingham, employed as a cook at Sambo's restaurant, was taken by Red Cross ambulance operated by Carmel volunteer firemen to Peninsula Community Hospital where he refused treatment.

Contrast Between Berlins Is Best Pro-West Propaganda

at opposite ends of the globe, I might understand the contrast between them. Berlin is one of the oldest cities in Germany. The people who live there have enjoyed the same cultural heritage for generations. Although Berlin has been divided into sectors for a number of years, the people in this divided political island have only been isolated from each other and from exchange of ideas for four months.

"The wall which encircles West Berlin was not good from the standpoint of propaganda. Any person who sees both sides of Berlin will think, if he does not know political history, that the wall was built around a new city; that outside the wall was an old city, and that the latter was in such ruin that it was not worth rebuilding, so had been left to return to the dust whence it came.

"Although financial assistance from the United States and other Allied powers may have had much to do with the grand appearance of West Berlin, I give most credit to the German people; without their willingness, their drive to restore life to their land, improvement on such a complete scale would have been impossible. I must not forget one all-important factor: the West Germans have been able to rebuild under the blessings of freedom. Without this asset, reconstruction might well have never come about. As far as I can tell, the Russians could have, and did to some extent, provide money for rehabilitation, and there are German people in East Berlin.

"I think West Berlin is one of the best instances of pro-West propaganda in the world today. Best because it is there for anyone to see. But Berlin is not the only place exemplifying this; all of West Germany has emerged from its past shambles into a powerful, strong present. I have never seen such industrious people.

"I wandered along the entire length of Fredierichstrasse looking at the faces of the people and the goods in the shop windows. The people did not appear nearly so happy as those in West Berlin where they are always smiling. The displays in the shops were not elaborate as in the rest of Europe, nor were there many luxury goods shown. There was not one camera shop on the main street, but I did see two on side streets.

"At lunch time I decided to try some East German pastry. It looked delicious but was the only bad food I have encountered in Europe. I had brauchwurst in a little cafe, and it was good.

"When I returned to the border, I was herded again into the little room off the sidewalk. There were two East German guards waiting for me. One motioned for me to show him my wallet to see if I had any East German marks. If one has, they take them away without any reimbursement.

"I showed the guard my wallet, opening all compartments. He next asked me to empty my purse. It was shocking to see what came out of it. In addition to my wallet, I pulled out a clock, tablespoon, three scarves, two notebooks, stationery, stamps, a letter opener, two table knives, one teaspoon, safety pins, rubber bands, scissors, scotch tape, a lighter, matches, tooth paste and tooth brush, a can opener, travelers' checks, chocolate bar, cigarettes.

"Then I made motions to see if the guard wanted me to open the other six compartments in my purse. No, no, he indicated, what I had shown was enough . . . the table was covered!

"I next handed my passport through the mysterious curtained window. It was shortly returned and I walked over into a free land once again, checked in at Checkpoint Charlie and headed for downtown West Berlin."

FORSAKEN and sitting empty! The lawn has gone to "pot" and the house can take a little painting and fixing, but it's one of Carmel's famous board and bat cottages and is only $16,500! Two bedrooms, living room with open-beam ceiling and brick fireplace. Also a small studio room attached to the garage.

RIGHT ON THE GOLF COURSE — Pebble Beach! One of the most attractive homes we've seen in a long time. Completely remodelled and modernized, this is an older home, with all the charm that goes with one. There are 5 bedrooms (one with fireplace), 3 baths, 2 maids' rooms and a bath, a large living room and separate dining room (each with fireplace) facing the fairway, a bar, a built-in kitchen with all the modern conveniences, double garage. Sunny walled patio. Can be purchased furnished or unfurnished. $110,000.

CANYON VIEW LOT on quiet dead-end street, walking distance to town. $8,600!

MUST BE SOLD BY JANUARY 1ST, so this is your last chance. No apologies needed for this sunny 2 bedroom home in good condition. Has separate dining room, double garage. A good buy at $18,750!

JUST A STONE'S THROW from the beach and town, this U-shaped charming home. Residents Recall Past Christmases With Nostalgia

bers of his Christmases past: a firelit room with Mrs. Susan Porter sitting by the hearth telling tales from Irish mythology in her melodious, deep, rich voice.

Many Carmelites remembered depression - period Christmases as some of the very best. "In those days we couldn't get fancy ornaments or couldn't afford them, and the children went wild with excitement over cutting their own tree and decorating it with pinches of cotton and the chains they made from colored paper," one resident recalls.

Another remembers trees decorated with tiny abalone shells and dried starfish, combed from the beach. Those trees had a certain splendor, seemingly impossible to attain with the glass and plastic ornaments of today.

Also in the Highlands, one of the traditions which has endured is the annual potluck dinner for the Highlands Volunteer Firemen, set this year for December 28.

Though a number of Carmelites obligingly summoned up their personal ghosts of past holidays for the Pine Cone, and though they are not all included here in detail, there is one man without whose personal memories no story of Carmel Christmases would be complete. And he is Carmel Martin Sr., whose family home was on the site now occupied by the Mission Ranch.

Mr. Martin's memories of Christmas in Carmel run back further into the past than most. He was born in 1879 and grew up at the Martin family home.

"When I was a boy the only houses were the Duckworth home and one other, both near the eucalyptus grove at the north end of Carmel Beach, at the present entrance to Del Monte Forest.

"It was only after the first group of artists came that Christmas became a community celebration. In the early part of the century they took to having annual parties, some of them so enthusiastic that they lasted all night.

"George Sterling was here then. Jack London, Jimmy Hopper, Fred Bechdolt — all the artists and writers you hear about from those times. These parties were in the nature of what would be called cocktail parties today, although all through its early days Carmel was even drier than Pacific Grove because of the deed restrictions prohibiting even the serving of spirits in private homes.

"It was in the 1915-20 period, I believe, when this same group began to take an interest in decorating the tree at Ocean and Junipero.

"As for family Christmases, the ones I remember best were in the days before big Christmas trees came into common use. We used to have a very small tree, and roast chicken instead of turkey for Christmas dinner. But with nine children in our family, Christmas was a big festival. It was always a time of family reunion as we got older and left home."

The sketch of the dolls under the Christmas tree on the cover of this issue was made by Mrs. Jack (Beth) Garcia, Carmel collector of antique dolls and toys.

It was copied, Beth says, from a dim old photograph labelled "Louise's Christmas Tree, 1905." The photo was given to Beth by Mrs. Louise Spreckels Tracy, formerly of San Francisco and now of Hawaii.

Louise's mother, it seems, had a fondness for dolls, and in the way of those times, placed them unwrapped around the tree to delight her daughter on Christmas morning.

Most of the dolls in the picture, Beth says, have bisque heads and glass eyes, but the one under the couch is obviously a rag doll and the dignified lady behind the toy tea table seems to be a painted stockinette. The open-mouthed rabbit was probably a prop for a bean-bag game and the doll house must have been a sturdy one, for Mrs. Tracy told Beth she recalled crawling in and out of it.

FIRE CALLS

A still alarm at June Simpson's restaurant on Friday brought out 12 Carmel firemen and a truck at 9:17 o'clock in the evening. According to the Fire Department report, an accumulation of smoke had resulted from an overheated electric motor in a fan which circulated air in the heating system. There was no fire.

Last Thursday at 1:59 o'clock in the afternoon 19 firemen responded to a general alarm when fire broke out in the Paint Pot Sign Shop in Red Eagle Alley between Mission and San Carlos streets south of Ocean Avenue.

According to Fire Department records, the blaze, which did damage to the building estimated around $1,500, possibly started from an alcohol stove. One fireman, Jake May, was treated for minor injuries.

Planners Decide Parking Studies Vital To Carmel

ing for the first time after several months' illness, pressed for immediate action. "It's got to be licked," he told other planners who appeared reluctant to bring parking lot planning before the commission as a whole for discussion, study and preparation of a parking plan.

Commissioner Florence Josselyn stated that the Business Association should take over the study of parking "as they see fit." She was referring to the fact that months ago planning commission members and City Councilman Eben Whittlesey were appointed to work out parking proposals with the Business Association. Mrs. Josselyn was one of the commission appointees.

"I have never been asked to a meeting," she declared. "If the planning commission is to take on parking lot planning, let us this time invite the Business Association to join us," she added.

Commissioner George Willox thought there was no need for further studies on business district planning. He also was a member of the committee appointed to work with the association and present when the association decided to ask the city council to double business license fees for five years and earmark half of the doubled fee, also match this half with city funds, in order to finance municipal parking lots.

The proposal is pending a report to the council from City Clerk Larry Rose.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Rose told commissioners that the council had requested them only to study off-street parking standards and programs and to prepare a plan, not to consider parking lot financing. A parking plan for the business district was vital to the city, he stressed, and added that in three instances recently, without a plan, the city council had been unable to take advantage of three opportunities to purchase property for parking lots.

"Determine how much the need for parking is and where it shall be located," he urged.

City Attorney John Morse told planning commissioners that parking amendments incorporated in the general plan of the city might be "a good tool" and not commit the city to buy any specific property which might command exaggerated prices if designated for parking use in a precise parking plan.

Commissioner Willox also favored general planning. Specific designations might make the cost of land prohibitive, he emphasized.

Commissioner Fred Keeble suggested that technical planning help must be obtained if the city is to have a "real report and not a we-really-do-need-parking recommendation to the city council."

"Where will we get even with technical help?" Mr. Willox asked.

Chairman Blanks ended further discussion by setting 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon on January 10 as the time and date for the planning commission to have a special study session to determine what areas and what business uses have need for municipal parking. Mr. Whittlesey and Business Association representatives will be asked to meet with the commission at this time.

Also yesterday afternoon, commissioners allowed Howard W. Stackpole to divide into two building sites land on the south side of Ocean Avenue at Camino Real, provided he submits an amended plan including revised dimensions for setbacks within the legal time allowed for this action. They decided Vivian H. Culver may build a garage nearer than 15 feet to the front line of her hillside property on Torres Street between Eighth and Ninth Avenues. Nine feet was the setback commissioners favored.

The problem of exterior bathrooms in residences will be studied by the commission as a whole in January, commissioners also decided. Particularly, this study will be to find controls to prevent garages with bathrooms from being converted into rental units. Such controls will provide a policy for the building inspector and eliminate policing of such premises.

Commissioners yesterday afternoon decided to adopt criteria for signs on the sides of buildings. Such signs must not be objectionable in size, not unpleasantly affect surrounding property, be more suitable than a sign over the sidewalk, not be above the roof or adjacent to another building, commissioners set as desirable standards.

Residential district sign regulation consideration was continued. "Meanwhile they (residential signs) get bigger and bigger and more lighted," Mrs. Josselyn demurred about this delay.

Gertrude Ransom

Mrs. Gertrude Rose Ransom died at her home near Sixth and Carpenter streets yesterday evening following a lingering illness.

Born in Topeka, Kansas, on November 22, 1891, Mrs. Ransom came to Carmel to live only six months ago, although she had been a frequent visitor here in the past. Her marriage to Ralph Ransom took place in Denver February 12, 1910.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Ransom leaves a daughter, Miss Barbara Ransom of Carmel, and a son, R. H. Miller of Modesto.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning at 8:00 o'clock in the Dorney and Farlinger Memorial Chapel, with Requiem Mass at Carmel Mission Basilica to follow at 8:30. Holy Rosary will be recited Friday evening at 8:30 o'clock in the Dorney and Farlinger chapel. Interment will be in Monterey Catholic Cemetary.
